

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Breaking A Precedent
Washington, Dec. 6

THE unfavorable reaction of the labor politicians of all factions to President Truman's proposals in this Monday message is a convincing demonstration of the union attitude. They have become so accustomed to complete White House support that the moment a President takes the public view in an industry-labor controversy and acts in the public interests, they regard it as a hostile move and their spokesmen begin to chant about the "right to strike," which Mr. Truman and everyone else freely concede.

THEY insist that the presidential suggestions are "oppressive" in their nature and start whining about how in the present general election strike their efforts to effect a settlement by negotiation and arbitration had been rejected. It is revealing that the bitterest denunciation in Congress came from Representative Marcantonio, of the Communist-dominated American labor party, who denounced the Truman plan as "repressive legislation." Of course, it is nothing of the kind. All it is the first effort in ten years by a President to hold the balance evenly between the unions and employers, exhaust the methods of peaceful settlement, ascertain the facts and present them to the public before a strike is called.

OF course, can be said that the proposals made by President Truman could—and should—have been made long ago. It also can be said that the recent Labor-Management conference could—and should—have reached an accord on these issues. But it did not reach an accord along these lines nor on any other lines. It therefore is clear that the Truman suggestions offer the only hope of public relief from the extremely serious current strikes and the even more menacing ones which loom. It is true the President's proposals are not ideal and that they do not guarantee of permanent peaceful settlement of industry controversies. But, undoubtedly, they move in the right direction. Their adoption would be gain for the public and Mr. Truman deserves commendation for putting them forward.

OT THAT the fact-finding board is new idea nor, even in the case of the Railroad Brotherhoods, has it ways worked well. Much depends on the character of the board and on the willingness of the dis-

WHO'S TO MAKE THE WATCHES?

As odd a scene as history records took place a few days ago in the State Department's press room at Washington.

An indignant gentleman, armed with a copy of a statement soon to be issued by the Department, made a strong protective tariff speech to reporters gathered there. The State Department, he declared, has cut the tariffs on foreign-made watches—principally Swiss—to the point where the American makers are being put out of business.

The statement to which he objected was to the effect that the Department, instead of taking vigorous action, was politely asking the Swiss manufacturers to forego some of the profits which lowered tariffs made possible, and voluntarily cut down on the flood of Swiss-made watches being shipped to this country.

Who was this industrialist? What American company did he represent?

As a matter of fact, he wasn't an industrialist at all, and he didn't represent American watch-making companies.

He was a union man.

His name is Walter W. Cenerazzo, and he is national president of the American Watch Workers Union.

There is where the significance of the incident lies. Labor, at long last, has begun to awake to the harsh fact that importing competitive foreign goods is simply a way of exporting American jobs.

Mr. Cenerazzo had figures to back up his charge that the State Department's attitude is "weasel-worded."

The number of importers of Swiss watches has increased from 50 in 1940 to more than 500 at present.

A total of 28,000,000 Swiss watches have been brought into the United States since the start of the war, he said, representing a total of 14 years work for 8000 American watchmakers. Imports in October alone amounted to 2,100,000 watches.

The State of Pennsylvania has a direct stake in this matter. Lancaster used to be one of the three great watch-making centers of the nation, the others being Elgin, Ill., and Waltham, Mass.

The future of those centers—and the future jobs of the men and women who might get employment in them—depends almost entirely on whether our American State Department is going to continue to throw the bus-

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

CLEANED BY SCRIBES

The New Hope-Solebury-Buckingham branch of the League of Women Voters honored its retiring president, Mrs. Margaret Parker Gary, at a luncheon meeting at the Lambertville House a few days ago. More than 40 members and friends of the league joined in the tributes paid to Mrs. Gary.

Mrs. Marshall Cole, of New Hope, expressed the sentiments of the membership when she praised Mrs. Gary.

Mrs. Cole presented a gift from the membership as a token of appreciation. Mrs. Charles Carroll, of Solebury, who will succeed Mrs. Gary as president, added a brief tribute in introducing Mrs. Gary for her farewell remarks.

The retiring president stirred those present by the breadth and sweep of her analysis of the basic problems of the modern world and what women can do to help solve them.

For the purpose of providing additional recreation for the boys and girls, and particularly the girls who want to play basketball, the Doylestown school board decided on Monday evening to support basketball on Saturday for a period of ten weeks.

J. Leonard Halderman, supervising principal, asked that the board pay the sum of $10 for ten weeks which will provide the payment of $5 each for a man and woman to be in charge of the games.

The boys, who will use the armory, will be under the supervision of one of the men of the local school faculty, and the girls, who will use the regular high school gymnasium, will be under the supervision of one of the women teachers. More than 30 girls have already signed up for the girls' recreational program.

The move, which is designed to provide more recreational facilities for the boys and girls, was begun by the recreational council and announced on Monday.

SELLERSVILLE PLANS BORO' IMPROVEMENTS

Budget Item of $31,000 Is For Improvements To The Water Mains

FIRM ASKS SERVICE

SELLERSVILLE, Dec. 6—With improvements to the water mains of Sellersville borough included for the year 1946, one budget item of $31,000 is set aside for this.

During a previous meeting of council a proposal that the water mains be improved was made, and during the meeting this week the borough engineer, Frank H. O'Rourke, announced the improvements will cost $31,000. Council immediately instructed the finance committee to include this amount on the budget for the next year.

Announcement was made that the Sellersville Park Commission will sell Christmas trees from its tract, and the proceeds will be used to improve a small stream in the park from Walnut street to the Reading Railroad Company tracks.

A special committee was appointed by Ernest Kraft to consider the request of the Doughty brothers, who have purchased a tract of land which lies partly in the borough and partly in West Rockhill township. Using the trade name of Samalto, the Doughty brothers propose to construct a modern hosiery mill on the tract. Formerly they were located in Perkasie.

Request was made by the firm that the plant be furnished with water and sewer service. The firm is also asking for street improvements. The committee was instructed to consider the requests and to give its report to Council.

Report was made that council has purchased a small tractor to be used in cutting weeds and removing snow from the streets.

Bristol "Gas" Dealer Gets A 32-Day Term

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6—(INS)—Louis Di Tullio, 57, former operator of a filling station at Bristol, was under a 32-day jail sentence today on charges of turning over 2,413 counterfeit gasoline ration coupons to his supplier.

Judge Harry E. Kalodner also fined DiTullio $500. The coupons were good for 9,440 gallons of gas. DiTullio, father of six, pleaded guilty to three counts, and told the jury he bought the spurious tickets so he could keep his station running. He said he bought them from a "Bristol peddler."

Hilliard Smuck, OPA agent, testified DiTullio told him he sold gasoline at 40 cents a gallon, which yielded him two cents a gallon less profit than he earned in pre-ration days.

Judge Kalodner imposed the $500 fine on one count, the 32-day term on another, and gave DiTullio a suspended sentence of three months and placed him on probation for one year, to begin the day he leaves prison. He conditioned the suspended sentence on whether or not DiTullio pays the fine within 90 days.

GUNNER DRIVING WHILE DRUNK IS FINED BY JUDGE

Fred Sprague, 47, of Phila., Pleads Guilty To The Charge

FINED $250 AND COSTS

Judge Tells Him Bucks Co. Doesn't Want Those Kind of Gunners

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6—Judge Calvin S. Boyer bitterly denounced the actions of a Philadelphia gunner in criminal court here yesterday and then fined him $250 and costs or else serve a sentence of 2 to 23 months in the Bucks County Prison.

The accused was Fred Sprague, 47, of No. 1 Lee's Court, Phila., who pleaded guilty to driving while drunk on the Lackawanna Trail near Pipersville on his way to a gunning trip the night before the opening of the small game season. Sprague was arrested by a State trooper, who found some extra liquor in the car.

"You are the kind of gunner that Bucks county does not want," Judge Boyer told Sprague. "Fortunately for you, there was no one injured in this case; that's why you are escaping a prison sentence. You are the kind of so-called sportsman that cause large gunning fatalities. You are the sort of gunner that has forced farmers in Bucks county to post a good portion of their land against hunting."

"Farmers are not opposed to real sportsmen hunting on their lands; it is your type they oppose; the half-drunk men who go out with guns into the country and shoot chickens, cause accidents, and do as they please."

"You and your kind are not welcome in Bucks county. Nobody wants you. You are not morally or physically fit to carry a gun. There is no excuse whatsoever for anyone taking a drink before going out gunning."

Edmund W. Gibson, of Perkasie, pleaded guilty to driving while drunk when he was arrested on the Bethlehem pike by Trooper Caragno, of the Quakertown sub-station. He was sentenced to serve 2 to 23 months in the Bucks County Prison. The accused was involved in an automobile accident near Sellersville on Nov. 11, at 9:50 p. m.

Stanley Gnagey, a discharged Navy veteran, pleaded guilty before Judge Boyer yesterday to a charge of stealing $1350 in War Bonds from the home of Lewis Gaul, Langhorne.

Halsey Assails Proposed Merger of Armed Forces

Washington—Admiral William Halsey bitterly assailed Army proponents of a merger of the armed forces today, charging that "their method of putting it over is un-American, un-democratic and damn dangerous."

The former commander of the Third Fleet urged the Senate Military Affairs Committee to consider whether the proposed merger "is a planned attempt to absorb the Navy."

Halsey declared that adoption of an "ill-conceived and unstudied" plan for establishment of a single department of national defense "may leave us stripped of a vital part of our national defense in the future."

Neshaminy Man Is Granted Parole

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 6—James Carson, Jr., of Neshaminy, was granted a parole yesterday in the Bucks County Criminal Court by Judge Calvin S. Boyer. He has served the minimum of a sentence of 30 days to one year for driving a car after his operator's license had been revoked.

When Theodore F. Lake, Jr., of Penn Valley, told Judge Boyer that he was supporting four children, ranging in ages from three to seven years, the court continued his case on non-support—until a further investigation could be made. The court action grows out of the birth of another daughter, 15 months old, after he and his wife had been separated. Lake is being prosecuted for a board bill of $171 which is the arrearage in connection with the small child now being kept at a private home in Trenton.

Mrs. Anna Laks, mother of the five children, said she and her husband separated two years ago.

The father, who is employed by Rohm & Haas, Bristol, said two children are being boarded in Langhorne for $17 and two more with his mother at Penn Valley for $15.

THE ALLEN RITES

Funeral for Francis Warner Allen, who died at his home in Edgely on Tuesday, will be conducted at two p. m. on Saturday from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Robert D. Shores, Woodside avenue, Edgely. Relatives and friends; employees of Rohm & Haas Co., and of America House, Hook and Ladder Co., No. 2, Bristol; and members of Trenton Lodge, 164, L. O. O. M., Trenton, N. J., are invited. Burial in Bristol Cemetery will be in charge of George Molden, funeral director. Friends may call Friday evening.

In the last few months, State police and local authorities have been plagued by a new series of robberies, committed with a technique startlingly like that used in the old ones.

They remembered the youngster, Reynolds. And they remembered that he lived on Glenside avenue near Keswick, Glenside. The robbed homes were spotted on all sides of Reynolds' neighborhood.

They didn't catch up with Reynolds himself until yesterday. But, on Tuesday, Cheltenham township police investigated the home on Hickley road near Glenside avenue in which Reynolds' sister, Rose, 14, lived and cared for the two young children of Mrs. Mary Carr, 26.

Fur coats, jewelry and other valuables worth thousands of dollars littered the house.

"My brother gave me these things," Rose said nonchalantly. "I don't know where he got them." She said she and Mrs. Carr used

A HEALTH GAIN

A war gain for America is the system of wide popular donation of blood, which has given the country large reserves of the life-saving substance.

Before the war professional donors charged from $25 to $50 a pint. Now the blood is available to hospitals for $7.50 a pint. They charge a patient $32.50 but refund $25 if a friend of the patient will replace the amount used. Thus the blood banks are kept up to par.

Possibilities of employing human blood for sickness and surgery have barely been scratched. Several by-products already are in use. Fibrin foam, made from blood plasma, soaks up blood and clots it in a wound. It is revolutionizing delicate surgery and dentists are planning to use it.

Serum globulin is the first successful nonreactive anti-serum for treating measles. Hypertussis, a whooping cough serum, also is available, diminishing the effects of the disease in children. A serum has been found for fool-proof typing of blood. Red corpuscles, removed from whole blood and suspended in dextrose, are injected for severe cases of anemia. Other products are employed to coat wounds and ulcers to promote quick healing.

There will be enough blood plasma to meet all needs for a protracted period. The Army recently released a million pints to the Red Cross. Blood plasma doesn't deteriorate for at least five years.

ATOMIC BOMB WARNING

The United States and the world in general will not hear the last of the atomic bomb for several years, at least, if recommendations made to Congress by Maj. Gen. L. R. Groves are adopted. General Groves is head of the project which had a major part in discovering and developing atomic energy and making the bombs which wrecked two Japanese cities and hastened the end of the war in the Pacific.

General Groves says it will be necessary to continue manufacture of the bombs until there is an ample supply and the question of international control has been settled. The cost is estimated at slightly less than $500,000,000 a year. He urges Congress to authorize maintenance of present facilities immediately, that important personnel may be retained and factories kept in running order.

His report contains the latest estimate on damage done by the two bombs dropped on Japan. At Hiroshima 70,000 to 120,000 were dead or missing and more than 75,000 injured. At Nagasaki 40,000 were killed or missing and as many more injured.

One bomb dropped on Washington, General Groves warns, would destroy an area two miles in diameter and wreck government buildings in adjacent sections.

Governor of Alaska tells prospective settlers they will need both money and a job. Few suits of long underwear will also come in handy.

WHO'S TO MAKE THE WATCHES?

ness to Swiss concerns by low-tariff trade agreements, or will give protection to the American industry.

Last Summer President Truman asked for and received an extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Acts by which the protective tariffs have been cut more than half.

The State Department at that time promised the Congressional hearings and witnesses that under no circumstances would imports be allowed to put American working people out of jobs.

There was a good deal of suspicion at that time that the "global free trade" boys of the Department had their tongues in their cheeks when they made the promise.

Now is a good time to find out. The protest in this case does not come from a "special interest" or "capitalist" group, but from the representative of skilled workmen who want a chance to get back to work.

The watches they might be making are being made by employees of foreign concerns.

What is the State Department going to do about it? Nothing, probably.

The cult of "internationalism," what Congressman Luce called "globalony," has led the National Administration into some astonishing decisions in its foreign affairs.

President Truman had the opportunity of correcting some of the extremes. Between his good friend Byrnes and other spearheads of bureaucracy, he was coaxed away from the point of view of Congress and persuaded to go to bat for various Left-Wing schemes fringing on State-Socialism.

In few of the matters, however, is he likely to reap so quick a harvest of difficulty and disaster as in the free trade experiments.

The state is set for a repetition of what happened after the First World War. President Wilson slashed the tariffs before the war began; war-frozen shipping couldn't give foreign producers a chance to take advantage of this ripping down of our protections.

But shortly after the war ended there came one of the sharpest and most needless panics in our economic history. All over the nation American firms had to shut down because foreign goods was being dumped on the markets at less than the American costs of production.

The panic stopped as soon as Republicans were able to restore a protective tariff.

Exactly the same sort of depression may now be in the making.

If labor is waking up to the fact that working people's jobs are the real stake in the arguments over protective tariffs, it may be that the President and the State Department can be forced to undo some of the harm their policies threaten.

The Great Game of Politics

putants to accept its recommendations. There was a notable instance some years ago when the railroad unions refused to accept the findings of the fact-finding agency, whereupon President Roosevelt recalled the board which then gave the union what it wanted. Possibly it might work out that way again. On the other hand, it is wholly in the public interests thus to strengthen mediation methods and acquaint the people with the facts.

AND FOR two things Mr. Truman must be given credit. First, for telling the strikers to call off their strike and go back to work while the board is functioning. His predecessor never did anything like that—quite the contrary. In this connection it is recalled that Mrs. Roosevelt, herself a union member, on one occasion gave sympathetic support to a strike without knowing what the strike was about. The second thing to Mr. Truman's credit is that his proposals apparently abandon the dishonest and phony plant-seizure policy invented by Mr. Roosevelt and utilized by the striking unions to obtain pretty much what they wanted. And as a result of which the employers were pretty heavily penalized in the process.

THE MOST important thing about the Truman message is that it is bound to be followed by congressional action. In the last few years of the Roosevelt Administration Congress was anxious to enact legislation regulating unions and in accord with public sentiment. But it always found the President lined up with the unions in opposition. Twice Mr. Roosevelt, by exerting his personal influence, killed in the Senate labor regulatory legislation passed by the House. And finally the Congress had to pass the ineffectual Smith-Connally law over his veto.

FOR THE first time in years, the Congress and the President now see eye to eye on the need for a change in the labor laws. There is little doubt that both House and Senate will go as far as the President has asked. The probabilities are they will go a little further. At any rate, Mr. Truman has cleared the way for action. Certainly, the repeal of the Smith-Connally Act would now seem assured. And, it also seems that Congress may be sure that any fair bill will not meet with White House opposition. It required courage for Mr. Truman to take his stand. For the first time since 1933 the White House has acted without fear or favor in a union-industry situation. That is a great gain.

Correction—In this column recently the statement was made that the AFL is not opposing the labor regulatory bill recently reported in the House. Representatives of the AFL assert that the organization is in opposition. F. R. K.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
Lucienne was waiting in the Palm Room, sitting at a window table, sipping her sherry. She wore a black woolen frock, exquisitely cut to bring out the best features of her slender body. She had a black choker on her golden head, tipped at a rakish angle, and a short mink cape over her shoulders.

"My dear," Gail said, as she sat down opposite her. "You already look like the smartest young lady in town."
Compared to Lucienne, Gail felt rather middle-aged and dowdy, suddenly conscious of the unfashionable length of her brown tweed skirt which she'd meant to have short. She pulled down the cuffs of her bottlegreen silk shirt. "I suppose you've all been rushed to death, getting ready for the wedding?"

Lucienne looked down at the diamond ring on her left hand. "We certainly have been! Of course, Agnes insists everything is under control, but there are still a million things to do! Look at this!" She took out a long list from her black suede bag. "I have to go to the florists to decide on my bouquet. Then the Vogue Shop is redoing my veil—it was my own mother's, you know. And my going-away suit isn't finished. Do you think a light green too summery?"

"I don't think so," Gail said amusedly. "You'll wear it under a fur coat, won't you?"
"Yes, daddy is giving me a new Persian lamb," Lucienne smiled impishly. "Agnes says I'm too young for Persian—but she said the same thing about this mink cape."
They ate their lunch; bouillon, sole, green salad and fruit compote. For once, Lucienne paid little attention to the food. She was too busy chatting.

"Mr. Niles is giving Ralph a fortnight's vacation—even though they're short of doctors at the hospital. So we're going to have a real honeymoon! We've made reservations for a ranch out in Tucson. The season hasn't really begun out there, so it'll be almost deserted. Father is getting us seats on a plane, he can get almost anything, even with the war on! Gosh, it's going to be wonderful for Ralph! He'll learn to ride—"

"Oh, doesn't he ride?"
Lucienne missed the sardonic note in Gail's voice. "No," she replied. "Ralph has worked so hard, you know. He's never had time for any fun!"
After lunch, Gail accompanied Lucienne on a shopping expedition. Other brides—war brides—might be planning simple weddings, receiving practical gifts. But not Lucienne. . . . Finally Lucienne said, Goodrich president, that the industry will roll out passenger-car tires at a rate of 45 million units a year in the last quarter of 1945. The 1946 goal is 66 million, compared to 50 million in prewar 1940.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Hotels will spend at least $1,000,000 annually for floor and wall tile in their remodeling and repair programs, according to the Tile Council of America. Kitchen and bathroom modernization will account for most of this expenditure.

An Atomic Bomb For Fairyland?

Can you wipe out in one full sweep what the centuries have been building? Can you flit about from age to age, without some little thing about any one of them clinging to your mind, acting as a sort of cushion against some harsh reality? Can you make an automaton of a little child, giving him only this earthly age of mechanics and science to provide his soul and mind with food for thought?

'Midst all this atomic energy, rocket travel, jet propulsion and advanced medicine, so many of the so-called greater minds are discussing the idea of dissolving the myth of Santa Claus; to do away with the familiar red suit and the "little round belly," to disintegrate the beloved "Night Before Christmas" and the art of fanciful imagination. Destroy the myths? The Once-Upon-a-Time-s? Let loose an atomic bomb on Fairyland?

If it were not for people's imaginations, or the facilities to build illusions that lead to a more clearer understanding of the reality, if it were not for minds like those which drew up the fantasies and tales that give our children so much enjoyment, as well as food for thought, the atomic bomb, the jet plane and the sub-stratosphere rocket would never have come to pass. Destroy the beauty of a youngster's childhood by omitting the Land of Nursery Rhyme, the Fairy Tales of the Ages and the Myths of Centuries, and you will have destroyed the imagination of another human being. Without imagination, then, how can a child grasp the meaning of a Supreme Creator? If they are to be brought up to believe in such, how can they imagine their concepts without the functionings of an imaginative mind?

The glory and the spirit of the Christmas message, as well as the beauty and the awe-inspiring sense of the Easter Psalms, can be more readily instilled in a child's mind and heart only if he has a mind that can IMAGINE and build ILLUSIONS of such beauty, instead of merely accepting the facts as they are handed down. It won't make him less of a good citizen because his childhood included the grandeur of Knights in Armour, nor will it make him an escapist. To say that Alice in Wonderland is not suitable to this age, as it was twenty or thirty years ago, is like trying to dress a one-year-old in a dinner jacket every time he has his milk.

As long as a child has an alert mind, he will fall prey to fanciful imagination. It can never be fully destroyed. Therefore, isn't it more child-like (and don't we prefer children?) to build up the tales of Fairyland, instead of tearing them down? Far better, I would say, than having infants whose minds are channeled to such thoughts as death by rays, inter-planetary trips and the gruesome atomic bombings. LET LOOSE AN ATOMIC BOMB ON FAIRYLAND? HEAVEN FORBID!!!

—JAN SMITH.

NEW CARS NEEDED

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—During the first five postwar years American railroads will have to step-up production to at least 12 times the rate in the pre-war decade to provide themselves with modern equipment. Edward G. Budd, president of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Co., of Philadelphia, says most passenger cars on the railroads are now about 25 years old.

PAGE FOUR St. James' Is Scene Of A Pretty Wedding

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John R. Watson, 595 Bath street, and Mr. Gummels, who as a member of the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve for the past three years spent 26 months in the Pacific Theatre of Operations, is the son of Mrs. Lulu Gummels, 568 Bath street.

Mrs. Francis E. Courtney, Jr., Bath street, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor; with Mrs. J. F. McJunkin, Bath street, sister of the groom, and Miss Mabel Heath, Bath road, serving as bridesmaids. Mr. J. L. Gummels, of Sunnyside, L. I., a brother of the groom, was best man; with ushers including 1st Lt. Alvin C. Searfoss, of West Pittston, and Mr. Stanley Muffett, of Radcliffe street.

The bride was attired in white; the matron of honor in pale orchid, and the bridesmaids in chartreuse. The bridegroom, in a tuxedo, carried a white satin, had a basque bodice, yoke of net, and wide band of French roses—point lace enhancing the off-the-shoulder effect. Sleeves were long. Her veil of Duchess lace was worn on this occasion by a member of the sixth generation in the family, it having been used by her great, great, great grandmother, and succeeding generations. The bride carried an arm bouquet of white roses with gardenias in the center.

The costumes of the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were of net, Mrs. Courtney's pale orchid costume was patterned like that worn by the bride, but was minus a train. Sleeves were three-quarter length. The gowns of the bridesmaids, chartreuse in tone, had sweetheart necklines, bouffant skirts and three-quarter length sleeves. The trio wore silver Juliet caps, and white satin sandals. The matron of honor carried yellow chrysanthemums; and the bridesmaids, white mums.

The costume selected by Mrs. Gummels, mother of the groom, consisted of a black crepe dress with trim of black satin, a winter white hat, and gardenia corsage. Mrs. Watson wore a black dress with white floral design, black felt hat, and gardenia corsage.

Covers were arranged for 35 members of the Watson and Gummels families, and members of the bridal party at a reception dinner held at the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, N. J. Upon their return from a honeymoon journey Mr. Gummels and bride will reside with the latter's mother. The travelling costume of Mrs. Gummels included a two-piece suit of pale green, black top coat with leopard trim; black accessories, black felt hat, gardenia corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Bristol high school.

Our Father in Heaven, we praise Thy name that we are again on the path toward peace. Teach us how to follow the Prince of Peace who gave all for the soul and spirit of man. Help us to realize that though the war is over, peace must be won by those whose devotion to Jesus is constant and sure. May we find in him the inexhaustible treasure of eternal freedom and peace. Amen.

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FALL BREAKFAST

For extra-hearty eating on a brisk fall morning, serve pork sausage (links or patties) with fried apples. Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, says to start the sausage in a cold frying-pan. Add 2 tablespoons water, cover, and simmer until water evaporates. Then remove cover, increase heat slightly, and brown sausage all over. The apples may be cut into rings or sliced; fry slowly until golden brown in some of the sausage drippings.

KAISER FIVE TO BID FOR FIRST PLACE IN MERCER CO. LEAGUE

Meets Undeclared American Steel Five On Rohm & Haas Floor

TWO GAMES TONIGHT

1. Nightcap Rohm & Haas Players Will Battle Panelyte

With three straight wins to its credit, the Kaiser Cargo basketball team will make a bid for first place in the Mercer County Industrial League tonight when it meets the undefeated American Steel five on the Rohm & Haas floor. In the nightcap, the fast-going Rohm & Haas team meets Panelyte.

Both Kaiser Cargo and Rohm & Haas won their games last week, with both winning over "Teddy" Kearns' fast skidding J. A. Roebeling team. The Roebeling team meets Kaiser Cargo again on Friday night at which time Rohm & Haas plays Hightstown Rug on the Washington School floor, Trenton.

Kaiser is in tip-top shape for the league - leading American Steel quintet and since "Ace" Abbott has returned to the lineup, the local airplane workers are rated the leading aggregation of the Mercer County circuit.

Abbott plays with the Trenton Tigers in the American League and when the Tigers aren't scheduled to play he dons a Kaiser uniform. Along with Abbott, the "Wingers" have Devon Smith, formerly of Michigan State. Smith is one of the leading scorers of the circuit.

"Bert" Barbetta, Nick Vaffis, "Chick" Ciatella, Peo Carnevale, "Unkie" Gallagher, make up the rest of "Teddy" Russo's array of players.

Tony Castor's Rohm & Haas outfit surprised the followers of the Mercer County loop with its 49-48 triumph over Roebeling last Friday night and incidentally the player who caused the Roebeling defeat, Frank Linzenbold, is an employee of the Roebeling Company but likes to play with Rohm & Haas.

Tonight's starters in addition to Linzenbold will be Joe Roe, Ralph Cahall, Nick Pandetta, and Bosen Rice.

BOWLING

Although losing two out of three to the Fairweather Cafe Keglers, the Rohm and Haas team retained a two-game lead in the race for first place honors. Fairweather's pulled out to a three-way tie for second place along with Burlington and O'Boyle's Ice Cream. O'Boyle's took two out of three from Burlington while Barton's Service dropped three games to the Rodgers Corner team.

Morrisville had eight players on the two squads while Langhorne placed one on the first team and two on the second.

The teams:

The accused, who was sentenced to 6 months to 5 years in the Bucks County Prison, is the son of Rev. James Gnagay, 58, pastor of a well known community church at Ridgewood Park, N. J.

Rev. Gnagay and his wife are estranged. He has two other sons who have been very successful, and he was at a loss to explain why Stanley had become involved in this type of crime. The sentence was pronounced after the court and Rev. Gnagay had been in a lengthy conference concerning the actions of Stanley since he got out of the service.

Robert J. Dilworth returned to his home in Jamison with a 22-point buck deer he shot in Tobyhanna township, Monroe county. He brought down the deer about 15 minutes after having taken to the woods.

Mr. Dilworth said the deer had a number of antlers which were broken, and he did not count these with the 22 points.

The hunter, who had no companions in his party, said the deer will dress about 170 pounds. He estimates the animal is about 25 years old.

HULMEVILLE

Arthur Eechbach, of St. Louis, Mo., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bilger.

The following are spending a week at Estella, Sullivan County, hunting for deer: Messrs. Howard Black, Linfred Benner, Joseph Miller, Joseph Mucklow, Sr., Joseph Mucklow, Jr., Paul and William Mucklow. Yesterday Black bagged a deer.

Members of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society conducted their annual Christmas party on Tuesday evening following the business session in the Neshaminy Methodist Church social hall. Miss Grace H. Five dollars was voted as a gift to Fifth Street filling, which includes the pumpkin and other ingredients, already mixed.

Because of the convenience of using these products, it is only natural that we should serve pumpkin pie more often. And there are many simple ways in which we can vary it, to give added interest and avoid any risk of monotony. By serving a variation now and then, we can keep this old-fashioned favorite a "special treat."

Why not make small individual pumpkin pies occasionally? These are especially attractive and convenient to serve at a party; and they may be topped with a spoonful of whipped cream delicately flavored with spice.

A well-known tea room serves pumpkin pie in an unusual and delightful way - with whipped cream on top, and a spoonful of honey placed in a depression in the cream. The combination of flavors is superb.

The pie filling itself may also be varied. The sweetening may be either white or brown sugar, or partly molasses. For a richer filling, cream may be used instead of milk. For an unusual flavor, a bit of lemon juice and grated rind may be added. Grated coconut and nutmegs; or the pie may be served chopped nuts are other possible additions with finely chopped peanuts sprinkled over the top.

A favorite with many families is this Pumpkin Chiffon Pie, which is a little lighter in consistency, but has the same rich, spicy flavor. The pie shell is made with lard, which is accepted as the perfect shortening for pastry. It gives a tenderness and flakiness which are all that can be desired. What's more, because of its high shortening power, it is possible to use less lard than the amount you would need of another shortening.

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie

Baked pie shell
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
1/2 cup cold
1 1/2 cup strained pumpkin
1 cup light brown sugar
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar
Soak gelatin in cold water. Mix pumpkin, sugar, slightly beaten egg yolks, spices and salt together. Cook in double boiler or over low heat, stirring constantly, until it is of custard consistency. Add soaked gelatin; stir until melted. Cool. When mixture starts to congeal, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, to which the 2 tablespoons sugar have been added. Pour into baked and cooled pie shell; chill in refrigerator one hour, or until filling is firm enough to cut. Garnish with whipped cream.

Single Pie Shell

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup lard
2 or 3 tablespoons cold water
Sift flour with salt. Cut lard into flour until crumbs are coarse and granular, about the size of dried peas. Add cold water gradually, mixing quickly and evenly throughout the flour with a fork until dough just holds in a ball. Roll to 1/8-inch thickness, place in pan (or on the back), prick all over with a fork. Bake in a hot oven.

Meat Sandwich Is Lunch-Box Favorite

Are you looking for a new idea in lunch-box sandwiches? Here is one that a working man will particularly like, because it's "something he can bite into!" It is suggested by Jessie Alice Cline, home economist.

The bologna makes the sandwich hearty, satisfying and nutritious. The variety of seasonings makes the flavor really snappy. This is a prize-winner for cool fall days.

Minced Bologna Sandwiches

2 cups minced bologna
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons chopped pickle
2 tablespoons catsup
1/2 cup salad dressing
Combine ingredients in a given and mix thoroughly. Spread generously on bread which is first been spread with butter margarine. Lettuce is a good addition, but should be wrapped separately for the lunch-box and when the sandwich is eaten.

Pennsylvanians Preparing For First Peace-Time
Xmas in 4 Years

SERVICES PLANNED

Over A Million Christmas Trees Are Expected To Be Sold in State

By Suzanne Flick
(INS Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 6 (INS) — Pennsylvanians were preparing today for their first peace time
Christmas in four years, but Yuletide celebrations were expected to be overshadowed by losses sustained in the bloodiest war in history.

Most churches have planned special rites for the season and many cities have scheduled community services.

The return of hundreds of thousands of veterans from the armed services will point up Yuletide gaiety and sparkling Christmas decorations will replace the overcast stars that hung in homes for more than four years.

The State Bureau of Forests reported that more than 1,000,000 Christmas trees were expected to be sold during December and no shortage of such decorations as hustle and holly was anticipated.
Retailers looked forward to their best Christmas season since boom years although merchandise was scarce despite the end of the war.
Representative merchants throughout the state reported the Christmas season had opened about three weeks behind last year's but sales during the third week in November had increased more than 50 per cent over the same period in 1944.

"There has been no noticeable increase in the output of civilian goods despite the end of the war," the retailer reported, "but consumers are splurging after starving for certain items they felt they couldn't buy while the war was in progress."

Another merchant predicted more sales will be empty by December 15 this year than ever before. Prices hovered around 1944 levels and there was little change in quality, it was reported.

Customers demands mounted for singerie, nylon hosiery, men's shirts and underwear, bed clothing and electrical household equipment, department store officials stated. A shortage of certain types of shoes, especially in the lower price brackets, appeared imminent.
The shortage of men's wear was aggravated by the demands of veterans returning to civilian life.

Candy supplies were adequate as the Christmas buying season got underway but the sugar shortage may curtail production later in December, manufacturers said.

Turkeys, ducks, chickens and other traditional Yuletide foods are more abundant than a year ago and grocers reported adequate supplies of cranberries — an item scarce through war years.

Whiskey consumers will be eligible to purchase rations every two weeks ending with January 5. The first period opened yesterday.

Helpful Pointers

On Buying Beef

Now that there is a good supply of beef on the market, home-makers may well check up on some of the fine points of purchasing beef, asserts Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. It is to their advantage to know the different grades of beef, how to judge the quality of the beef they are buying, and for what dishes they may use the lower grades of meat satisfactorily. They will also find it helpful to be familiar with the different retail cuts; for, in general, the best methods of cooking are determined by the cut of beef you are using.

There are three guides by which the consumer may know the quality of any kind of meat. One is the Inspection Stamp, a round purple stamp which specifies that the meat has been "inspected and passed" by government inspectors. According to federal law, this must be stamped on all meats sold in interstate commerce; a large portion of other meats is inspected under state or city regulations.

The second way to tell quality of meat is by the Grade Stamp. At the present time, this must be placed on all beef sold. It indicates whether the beef is of Choice, Good, Commercial or Utility grade. If the meat comes from a plant having federal inspection, the grade is preceded by "U. S.". The meat may also be graded by the packer, in which case it will be marked with the grade AA, A, B or C, in addition to the government grade.

The buyer may also judge the quality of beef by the appearance of the meat itself. High quality beef has a smooth covering of firm, creamy white fat. The lean is red (this may vary from pale red to deep blood red), and is well marbled, which means there is fat intermingled with the lean. The texture of the lean is firm, velvety in appearance, and fine in grain. The bones in young beef are porous and red; in older animals, white and flinty.

Different grades and cuts of beef vary greatly in tenderness. Most thick cuts of Choice and Good beef are tender enough to be cooked by dry heat (roasting, broiling or pan-broiling). Most cuts of Utility beef, on the other hand, should be cooked by moist heat (braising or simmering). With Commercial beef, the tender cuts (rib, short loin and sirloin) are cooked by dry heat, other cuts by moist heat.

When less tender beef is ground, it may be cooked just the same as tender meat. Less tender steaks may be made tender by pounding, searing or cubing.

All cuts of beef (as well as other meats), no matter what the grade, become tender and appetizing if correctly cooked. Low temperature is one of the chief factors of importance in cooking. Also, all cuts and grades of meat contain the same high-quality proteins and other valuable nutrients.

Tempting Soup Recipes

From Foreign Lands

When cold weather sets in, nothing brings a smile of cheer more quickly than a bowl of steaming hot soup, remarks Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. A good soup can be the nourishing main dish or a simple, delicious meal; and there is infinite variety possible in the making of this ever-welcome dish.

People in lands all over the world enjoy soups for their warmth and tastiness, and many countries have their favorites which are typical national dishes. The following are a few of these which may be unfamiliar to most Americans, but are well worth trying.

Cauliflower Soup

(From Czechoslovakia)

1 large head of cauliflower
2 cups water
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
5 cups seasoned veal stock
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons cream
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Nutmeg (optional)

Wash cauliflower and separate into flowerettes. Clean stem, peel and chop soft part into small bits. Cook in salted water until tender. Reserve best flowerettes; mix remaining cauliflower with stock. Melt butter or margarine, add flour, and 1 to 2 tablespoons stock and add this to the other hot mixture. Cook until slightly thickened, then mash all through strainer. Return to kettle, add cream and reserved flowerettes, and heat to boiling point. Add beaten egg yolks, but do not cook. Serve in tureen, sprinkled with parsley and nutmeg. Serves 6.

Pumpkin Soup

(From Brazil)

½ pound yellow pumpkin, cut in 1-inch cubes
2 quarts rich beef stock
¼ cup uncooked alphabet noodles
Finely chopped parsley
Cook pumpkin in well-seasoned beef stock. When soft, strain through sieve. Bring to a boil, add noodles, and cook until they are done. Serve in tureen; sprinkle with parsley. Serves 6.

Scotch Broth

(From Scotland)

1-3 cup dried peas, green or yellow
1 cup leeks, sliced in ¼-inch slices

¾ cup diced carrots
¼ cup diced turnips
¾ cup coarsely-chopped onions
1½ pounds mutton
2 quarts cold water
1 cup barley
2 sprigs parsley
2 teaspoon salt (or more)
¾ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Soak peas overnight. Prepare vegetables. Put mutton in large kettle, add water, cover, and bring to a boil. Cook 1½ hours. Add vegetables, washed barley, sprigs of parsley, salt and pepper. Cook

BUMPER CROP

GREELEY, Colo. — (INS) — A peach seed that was carelessly cast six years ago into a yard of Charles E. Bhillings of Greeley, produced a crop of peaches this year. One of the 40 peaches gathered from the tree measured three and a half inches in diameter and weighed over half a pound.

Much of the records are on microfilm.

Much of the sorting is done by machine, but there always remains some hand-grouping, among the more common names—the John Siths and the Robert Jones, for example.

Currently the work is done under the direction of Donald M. Merritt, acting deputy commissioner of the Treasury Bureau of the Public Debt.

He is naturally proud of the work of his 7,000 employees in keeping straight the records of American bond holders.

"I can honestly say," Merritt admitted, "that a big job is being done."

May Carry Phila. Water Supply Across Bucks Co.

In a plan submitted by engineers for procuring a new water supply for Philadelphia it is suggested that the Schuylkill River be abandoned as a source of supply, and that the Delaware River be "tapped" 13 miles above Delaware Water Gap.

Known as the Yardley-Wallpack Bend project, this plan was favored as the "most economical and suitable source of upland water supply for Philadelphia's future."

The intake, the engineers decided, would be in the vicinity of Yardley, with a regulating reservoir near Warrington, and conduits to deliver the water to Philadelphia's existing filter plants at Queen Lane, Belmont and Torresdale.

The Yardley-Wallpack Bend project was favored strongly by the engineers, who have spent months studying possible water sources along the Delaware, the Lehigh and their tributaries.

Unlike an alternate plan which calls for a conduit from the dam site into Warrington, the Yardley-Wallpack Bend proposal calls for the water for Philadelphia to be released into the channel of the Delaware, then drawn out at Yardley. From Yardley the water would be tunneled to a pumping station near Neshauney Creek in the vicinity of Hulmeville, where separate pumps would send 166,000,000 gallons daily to the Warrington basin and the remaining 334,000,000 gallons to the coagulating basins at the Torresdale Filter Plant.

From Warrington, the water would flow through a gravity tunnel to Queen Lane station with eventual distribution extending to Belmont and Roxborough.

The Warrington reservoir, according to Mr. Emerson, would have a 43 days' requirement at the 500-million-gallons-a-day rate, ready for emergency should trouble develop at the Yardley pumping station. To install this plan, according to the engineers, would require 44.5 miles of tunneling.

Quality Protein Is Important In Reducing Diet

A great many people seem to become "weight conscious" in the fall. Young women and girls who have dressed for freedom and comfort during the summer may suddenly realize that their figures do not suit the new fall and winter fashions. Men who play a lot of golf or tennis in warm weather may decide that they need to cut down on their eating in the winter, when they get less physical exercise. And so, they start a "reducing campaign."

Such a move, when undertaken carelessly, can easily be harmful to the individual's health. If care is not taken to see that the nutritional needs of the body are met, it may result in a lack of vigor and decreased resistance to disease during the cold winter months.

No one should enter upon a drastic reducing program without the advice and supervision of a physician. However, it is possible to reduce one's weight within reason and still maintain good health. If one eats the right kinds of food, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist.

A reducing diet should provide enough proteins to maintain and repair the body tissues; it must also include plenty of the necessary minerals and vitamins. The aim should be to eat meals which are high in these food factors, and at the same time low in calories. Then the fat of the body is burned to supply the energy needed, and body weight is reduced.

The quality of the proteins eaten is of special importance when the diet is restricted. It is not surprising, therefore, that excellent results have been obtained with a diet in which lean meat is the chief source of protein. Meat contains proteins which fulfill all the body's needs. Emphasizing meat has other advantages, also. Meat provides important nutrients in addition to proteins, particularly the B vitamins and the minerals iron and phosphorus. Meat has been called "the best blood builder;" it helps to prevent anemia, which often results from a greatly restricted diet.

KEEPING ALIVE IS BIG JOB IN FRANCE

You Can Live Royally Today If You Are A Millionaire, It Is Stated

$3,000 FOR A NEW CAR

By Elizabeth Bennett
(Written Especially for I. N. S.)

PARIS, Dec. 6.—(INS)—You can live royally in France today if you are a millionaire. If you can afford five hundred dollars a month for rent and six hundred dollars a week for food, you would find this country as comfortable as home.

But if your income requires a more frugal existence, then you have problems.

You want a new French frigidaire? A thousand dollars. A new family car? Three thousand dollars. A new livingroom suite? Fifteen hundred dollars.

A cheaply-made radio costs only $200, but a new vacuum cleaner is priced at $600. A woolen dress is reasonable at $150, and a man's suit costs closer to $750.

Compared to the prices of 1938, when I was last in France, most commodities are just about 10 times more expensive. And even at such astronomical prices, most household furnishings are impossible to obtain.

The middlemen of French industry find it pays better to route their products away from the retailers and into the hands of black-market dealers who will always find customers during an inflation.

The little people of this country know that it will be a year before surpluses and selling competition end such a practice and lower prices.

If you want to come to France—as a tourist or as an immigrant—before that year has passed, you must expect to live primitively. The situation is apparent from the moment you step off the boat onto the docks in war-torn Le Havre. From that moment onward the impression is strengthened.

Le Havre is still in the first stage of restoration: debris-clearance, the building of temporary shelters for the homeless and the repair of important streets.

The remainder of France, most of it undamaged, has not yet progressed beyond the second stage: restoring the distribution of food and clothing, repairing the links of communication and transportation, and calming the neurosis born during five years of German occupation.

During the next 12 months, for one example, French citizens will be allowed to buy one-fifth of a pair of shoes. It will take more than six months to have a telephone installed in our home.

Newspapers, echoing the general public feeling, cry "scandal," and accuse the government of irresponsibility. But the problem of rehabilitation in France today reaches much more deeply than the government ministries.

In the town of Cormeilles where we have our home, you can glimpse the problem. The store-keepers would rather sell under than over the counter because it brings them more profit. The local administrators are so busy keeping their families fed and clothed and warm by intricate grey-market operations that they have little time left to do their regular work.

Few people in France today are situated comfortably enough to carry on a peacetime job. They have first to think of coal and meat and clothes for their families. Just keeping alive is a full-time job.

Our neighbors spend much of their time these days worrying about how to acquire more coal—their ration for the whole winter is only 800 pounds—and where to find the eighty dollars each black-market ton will cost.

They are not seriously worried, probably because worry is not part of the French temperament, though they grumble a lot. But their problems, and ours, will surely not decrease until late next spring.

FASHION PARADE

By Max Factor, Jr.
(Famous Make-Up Advisor to the Screen Stars Now Waiting for INS)
HOLLYWOOD—Many women suffer from a major misapprehension regarding the use of cleansing cream. This involves the mistaken idea that cleansing cream should never be used on oily skin.

Cleansing cream, correctly used, has nothing to do with lubricating the skin, or adding further oil to it, and it makes no difference whether the complexion is naturally oily or dry as far as employment of this important beauty aid is concerned.

In specifying that cleansing cream must be correctly used, particularly have in mind the step of finally removing it from the skin.

If cleansing cream is not completely removed, an even slight remaining trace of this material can somewhat defeat its purpose of cleanliness. This is particularly true when this cream is used on an oily skin. Even a minute quantity of either cleansing cream or surplus natural skin oil will attract and hold grime.

Remove Cream With Clean Cloth
To be sure that you have removed all final vestiges of cleansing cream, first remove obviously visible evidences of it with either a clean make-up cloth or towel, or with paper make-up tissues. If you use a cloth for such removal, be sure that it hasn't already some smears of removed cream on it. There is no point in rubbing new cream off and old cream on.

After removing the main surplus of cleansing cream in one of the manners described, go over the complexion with an application of skin freshener. If you have a dry or normal skin, or with an astringent lotion if your skin is oily or your complexion is marred by very large pores.

While the skin is still slightly moist from the skin freshener or astringent applications, dry it by blotting it with a clean cloth surface or a tissue sheet.

Be sure, in the procedure outlined, not to merely touch upon the "high spots" of the face, as so many women make the mistake of doing. Extend the lotion applications even beyond the areas which have been treated with cleansing cream.

LI TOMATOES IS OD AS VEGETABLE R A LUNCHEON DISH

By Mary J. Fleetham

The Economics Representative) chili powder is a favorite Middle American seasoning we can use to advantage when it comes to less meals.

Use stuffed tomatoes, filled with a simple soft breadcrumb and meat mixture, become definitely "meat style" when you add that teaspoonful of chili powder. Chili powder is, of course, a mixture of several kinds of Middle American's favorite peppers, dried and ground to a convenient powder. Chili is another favorite seasoning made from Middle American peppers.

Often think of paprika as a Hungarian specialty because it was developed in Hungary. But Keyes, home consultant for Fruit, tells us that the same peppers used for paprika and Middle American peppers, and they've been exported to Europe for this purpose for something like four hundred years.

It's interesting to know that practically all the staple spices have been grown, or certainly can be grown, in the American tropics and on the enormously varied land surfaces of Middle America.

The United States is the world's foremost consumer of spices. And considering the fact we've consistently done our buying thousands of miles away, it would seem like an excellent idea to get together with the Middle American countries (possibly with the assistance of the superb agricultural experimental stations maintained by United Fruit), so we could have a permanent source of all important spices right here in our own hemisphere.

Chili Tomatoes

- 4 medium tomatoes
- 1 cup soft breadcrumbs
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons melted bacon drippings
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika

Cut the stem ends from the tomatoes, carefully scoop out the centers and chop. Mix the tomato pulp with the other ingredients and refill the tomatoes. Dot with butter, arrange in a shallow baking dish and bake, uncovered, in a moderate oven (375 degrees F) for twenty minutes or until the tomatoes are tender and the stuffing is nicely browned.

Tiny strips of bacon may be arranged on the tops of the tomatoes before baking if liked, or they may be sprinkled with grated cheese. Serve garnished with parsley.

Plus Flavor Tips

The following ideas for giving extra flavor to meat dishes are suggested by Jessie Alice Cline, home economist:

A clove of garlic tucked into the joint of a leg of lamb gives the meat a deliciously different flavor. Put a bay leaf in the pan with roast pork or braised pork chops. Use sour cream for the liquid when making veal or lamb gravy. Try baking a slice of ham in pineapple juice. Pour syrup left from pickled fruits over a veal roast, for added flavor.

DIRECT HIT

TOPEKA, Kans. — (INS) — Pinpoint bombing of military targets was strictly small time stuff, according to Sgt. Joseph W. Wright of Kansas City, who now is a patient at Winter General Hospital after spending three years as a Japanese prisoner.

Wright says an example of what Yank bombers can do was demonstrated when American planes flying food parcels to the prisoners dropped a case of tomatoes which went through the mess hall roof and into a cooking pot.

EDGELY A. C. WILL TRY TO BREAK INTO THE WIN COLUMN

Lines Up Tonight Against Members of Catholic Boys' Club

MUTUAL AID COURT

Harriman and Celtics Will Battle It Out in The Second Tilt

The Edgely A. C. five will attempt to break into the win column of the Mutual Youth League tonight when it lines up against the Catholic Boys' Club in the first game scheduled on the Mutual Aid court tonight. In the second tilt, Harriman will meet the Celtics.

Both Edgely and Catholic were beaten in their openers last week. Manager Freddie Hibbs' contingent of Killian, Samsel, Cutchinal, Rittig, Hibbs, and Schaffer was not strong enough to cope with last season's champions, the Celtics. The game was more closely played than expected, however, for the Celtics won by but 7 points.

The Harriman team used but five players in trimming the Catholic Boys last week but must be on its toes to beat Vito Delia's Celtics tonight. Last week, Johnny Praksta, star forward of the Harrimanites, scored eight field goals and three fouls to lead the scorers of the week. The Celtics must stop Praksta to keep its winning streak intact.

Other Harriman players are Shelly, Walters, Lentine and Fraser while the Celtics starting line-up will be Harmon, Gullatto, Manera, McHugh, and Kline with Harman and Gullatto being the sharpshooters of the team.

Joe Kervick is coach of the Catholic Boys' Club who lost to the Harriman team by 11 points in its opener. Starting players on the Catholic team include: Kervick, Loughlin, Staley, Ferry and Stockett.
